INTERNATIONAL
MOTION PICTURE ALMANAC

EDITED BY TERRY RAMSAYE

And remember this..

One great picture can't make your season a success... nor can one great trailer make your theatre a success. ★ It's the daily grind that keeps you out of the red... good trailers for every picture you play... week in and week out... trailers that fit into your program... trailers that fit into your advertising scheme... trailers on a service basis... one for every picture you play... and at a price that is fair. ★ And remember this — More than 10,000 exhibitors know from experience the value of National Screen Trailers!

Proud of the Motion Picture Industry and proud to serve it . . .

Years of close association have given Bank of America and the great motion picture industry a thousand friendly ties.

Today Bank of America is as proud of the motion picture industry as are its own leaders. Bank of America is proud, too, of its position of leadership in serving the motion picture industry—the great companies, the stars, the producers, technicians, and the thousands of workers.

THE ANSWER

EASTMAN'S coöperation with the industry has helped to solve many a problem of motion picture technique. Now it supplies a complete answer to the important duplicating problem. Eastman Fine-Grain Duplicating Positive and Negative Films are capable of producing duplicates actually indistinguishable from originals. Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, Fort Lee, Chicago, Hollywood.)

INTERNATIONAL

QUIGLEY PUBLISHING COMPANY | NEW YORK

GROWING with the years and the industry which it serves the International Motion Picture Almanac arrives again. The mounting stack of proofs as the Almanac closes for 1937-38 is thicker, heavier, laden with more imposing figures and longer rosters of nameworthy persons engaged in the art and works of the amusement screen. The "Who's Who" section this year presents names and biographical data to the unprecedented total of 15,000 persons.

Also the growing complexity of the structure of the motion picture and of its international relations is recorded, reflected, in these pages. The institution which we proudly called an industry twenty years ago is indeed a super industry today.

This Almanac represents the combined efforts and facilities of all of Quigley Publications, including Motion Picture Herald, Motion Picture Daily, Better Theatres, Teatro al Día and Fame, and a 'round the world staff with bureau offices in Hollywood, Chicago and London. It is dedicated to the service of all of those constructively interested in the motion picture.

Where a Hollywood Million goes

An analysis of motion picture production costs and a discussion of the screen's relation to other industry

by Terry Ramsaye

THE Motion Picture is integrated with the whole of the industrial and economic structure of the world to a degree unparalleled by any other industry. The screen in making its representations all of life, places and peoples, not only goes everywhere but also reaches everywhere for the stuffs of which it is made.

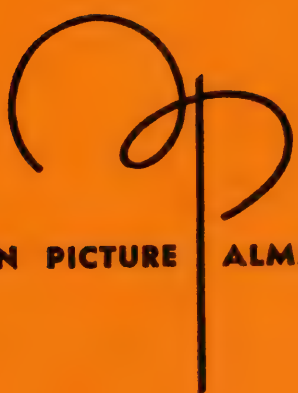
¶ The motion picture flings back to the world the money collected from it, continuously in a flow of spending, as unending as the flow of production itself.

¶ The box offices are conspicuous, but the offices of the purchasing agents are not, so the motion picture is credited in popular fancy with having a great deal of money that has only passed through on its way back to commerce, industry, labor.

¶ Here are presented figures typical of the disbursements made when Hollywood makes a million dollar picture. The figures presented are abstractions in the sense that they represent no identifiable production. But rather, here is an average in reasonable approximation of the showing of costs sheets on a large array of Hollywood productions. The estimates of several of the accounting experts of both Hollywood and New York have been made components of the averages that make up this typical million. Here, on the following page, is how the million goes:

BUDGET: $1,000,000

Cast	$250,000.00
Extras, bits and characters	50,000.00
Director	100,000.00
Director Assistants	20,000.00
Cameraman and crew	15,000.00
Lights	20,000.00
Makeup, hairdressers and supplies	9,000.00
Teachers	2,000.00
Crew and labor	12,000.00
Story preparation	70,000.00
Story costs	50,000.00
Costumes and designers	20,000.00
Sets and art directors	125,000.00
Stills and photographs	4,000.00
Cutters	10,000.00
Film negative	10,000.00
Tests	12,000.00
Insurance	20,000.00
Sound—Engineering and negatives	31,000.00
Publicity, transportation, research, technical, miscellaneous	20,000.00
Indirect costs	150,000.00
TOTAL	$1,000,000.00



A COMPLETE analysis of the distribution of production expenditure of the motion picture million would find it all spread across the world map in terms of raw materials, labor and taxes. The largest single item, probably eighty per cent of the total, would ultimately be found in the pockets of labor. No matter how many millions Hollywood pays stars, for instance, all that money eventually is spent in the channels of trade for everything from ham and eggs to orchids and chinchilla. In this typical budget we find $250,000 for cast. Approximately $200,000 of that goes into star salaries that pay Federal income taxes up to or in excess of 50%, and so, considering the while also the high tax bracket items of executive salaries in the item of "indirect costs," we might well credit Uncle Sam with taking about ten per cent of the cost of the million dollar picture right off the top. And that is but the beginning of the tax items that contribute to screen costs.

¶ The motion picture contributes vastly to the building materials industry, with its large component of labor costs. Lumber of all sorts, metals, structural and electrical, glass, oils, paints, hardware, chemicals, electrical machinery, fabrics, plumbing, make-up materials, carbons, rubber and plaster are consumed by the train and shipload. It is estimated that picture making consumes nearly 40 per cent of the nation's total output of a certain class of synthetic and specially treated woods and wall boards. An indicative item is the consumption of old rope shredded for plaster reinforcement. A plant in San Pedro acquires all the second hand cordage of the vast shipping of the Pacific coast to make this material for the motion picture sets.

¶ Everywhere there is a factory chimney smoking there is something being made that will sell to the movie mills of Hollywood. Every payroll in the world has at least a trace of that Hollywood million.

¶ The motion picture collects its dollars in dimes and quarters and sends them away in millions.

"Its significance to motion pictures and for having revolutionized one of the most important branches in the industry—the newsreel."

PROPHECY
As the March of Time marches into its third year, more than 10,066 theatres throughout the world, 7500 theatres in the U. S., show a new issue every four weeks.
Only time can tell whom The March of Time will present as its Stars for the coming season. Yet when they flash across the 10,066 screens in sharp, clear focus against a significant March of Time background of world-news, they will become objects of universal interest.
As time marches on during the coming season, The March of Time will add many such stars to that important gallery of statesmen, messiahs, dictators and just plain people that have already attracted millions to the world's box offices.
